Dr. Raymond J.G.M. Florax Memorial Fund:

Dear All,

As you all know, tragedy struck the Department of Agricultural Economics again this spring with the unexpected death of Professor Raymond Florax. Our department has been through a lot in the last fourteen months with the loss of two of very esteemed and productive colleagues in such a short time. I am so proud of how everyone has supported each other and the loved ones of our departed colleagues. Our supportive family spirit is the thing that I am most proud of about our department. Many of the other things that make us great stem from this cultural attribute. I wish that you could have attended Raymond's memorial service and seen the presence of so many of his former and current students and colleagues from The Netherlands who were there. It was a tremendous expression of his lasting impact on our lives.

We have established a fund to honor Raymond. The proceeds of the endowment will fund faculty and student exchanges between the Purdue Department of Agricultural Economics and universities in The Netherlands with preference given to visits to and from the Vrije University where Raymond continued to maintain a strong partnership. In fact, he brokered and encouraged several such exchanges during his time on the Purdue faculty. We discussed the various things that Raymond was passionate about and helping students and young professionals build their skills and network continued to come to the top of the list. I hope that you all will help us honor Raymond in this way. If we all give a bit then we can reach the minimum goal of $25,000 to endow the fund. Here is a link (<http://Giving.Purdue.edu/FloraxMemorial>) where you can make online contributions. You can always send a check to us here at Purdue with a note directing the funds toward the Dr. Raymond J.G.M. Memorial Exchange Fund. Thanks for your continued support and kindness.

Sincerely,

Ken
